

Pre-requisite Schemes

An Emergent Curriculum recognises that the sophisticated cognitive operations that emerge in children are irreducible to their component parts, which nevertheless act as developmental precursors that must be drawn together in the child's mind as a unique and individual creative act.